AUTOGRAPH LETTERS.

Every owner of a library should possess autograph letters of the authors represented in it. I will undertake to supply letters of every author, artist, statesman, warrior, or any celebrity of the last four hundred years. These letters should be bound in the books, or framed with portraits, or gathered in volumes. Nothing is more interesting nor adds more greatly to the interest of a library. It is now the practice to illustrate and extend volumes so freely with autographs as with prints. I am publishing "The Collector," a monthly journal devoted to autographs, and will send a sample copy to any one desiring it.
